

Figure 14: Rear (north) façade of the main North School building. Its gable roof is easily viewed from this direction. View looking southwest.

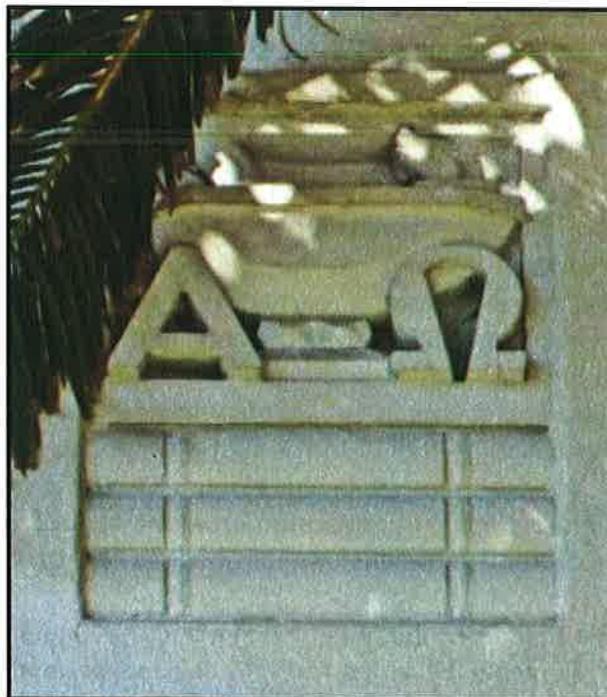

Figure 15: The decorative inset panel in the gable end of the front façade of the main North School building. The panel signifies the lamp of knowledge sitting on a stack of books between the Greek alphabet letters alpha and omega representing learning subjects "from A to Z." View looking north.

Figure 14: Rear (north) façade of the main North School building. Its gable roof is easily viewed from this direction. View looking southwest.

large
piece of plywood placed
in front of the windows

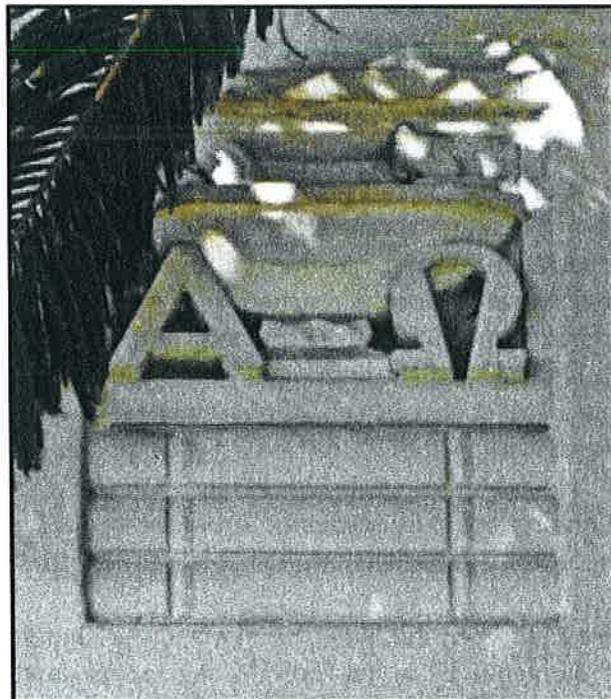

Figure 15: The decorative inset panel in the gable end of the front façade of the main North School building. The panel signifies the lamp of knowledge sitting on a stack of books between the Greek alphabet letters alpha and omega representing learning subjects "from A to Z." View looking north.

